Notes and Queries. THE CHART PROSENCIAMENTO For a man to ask a newspaper re porter in these dull times to suppress the relation of a story with a nub to it, the particulars of which have taken place right under his own nose, is almost as outrageous as to request a stock broker who is up to his eyes in the suds to carry a lot of assessable mining shares and waive the question of margin and interest money. But if we are not at this solema writing, suppressing as toothsome an item as ever fired the heart of a barber's apprentice or awakened the latent romance of a chambermaid, we are a brewer's horse! But it can no more be coaxed or scared or bribed ont of us than we can be induced to tell a lie. Our secret will be baried with us! - And with all this virtue firing our incorruptible heart, here we ait with cold feet, a catarrh in our head, the neurelgis and the car ache with never the faintest she low of a good square item the length of a stickful in all the expanse of a boundless note book, as silent as the Sphinz and as book, as silent as the Sphinz and as immovable as the crown of Mount Shasta! If this is not the very essence of a steadfast trustworthiness what is? Our friend the Capitol Square gardener, true as the needle to the Pole, is doing all in his power to prepare the earth for the seed time which we hope is not far distant. The times may be hard, money may be as scarce as honest Chinamen, but until we give o'er our hopes and homes to the wolf, the bat and the owl, let us lend an approving smile to the man who patronizes the seed merchants and causes the blade of gram to grow upon the square. Likewise alfalfa, timothy and onion sets at O. P. Willis's, corner Carson and King streets... Our poor little old friend Hans who used to best and sew pelts until he got enough money together to fill his own skin full, and then get as mel-low as any lord, was taken away in time to be spared the anxiety and pain and uneasiness of a war between his native land and the blood-thirsty Turk. He would have felt himself under a certain sort of obligation, no doubt, had he survived until this unhappy crisis, to have got himself even more frequently befuddled than he used to get,—and that was sufficiently often to preserve a fresh recollection of the grateful glow of an early morning dram. And although the vague anspicion flashes across our mind that Hans may have been a Dutchman or a Fin, the presumption of his being a Russian or, at any rate a Siberian or a Laplander is sufficiently strong to justify these retrospective reflections. At all events we are sorry he is dead. We waste no gloomy, hopeless grief over his humble grave, but we honestly mourn him as the makas harmless and as regular an item as ever went rolling home to an unsorrowful bed, o'er all the ills of life victorious. A tear, under such circomstances would be an impertinence; but when that small furbearing Muscovite lost the number of his mess, as jolly a paragraph as came obsolete ... There was a carload of tourists arrived here yester-day. They got here in good time to have a taste of our procrestinated winter; but they should have deferred their trip if they desire to see the rabbit-weed in the full glory of its golden plumage. Also, if they had waited a little longer they might have seen the full magnificence of Joe Platt's stock of summer alothing latest fashions and at prices to - latest fashions and at prices to suit the times. Some of them looked of that peculiarly moral class who frown upon wine at state dinners, deny themselves the vice of smokare reported as follow: "If the ing, are gifted in psalmody and swal-editor of the Mail is not a convicted low the cold Johnny cake of Ruther-Dalziel, of the San Francisco Mail, makes any more appeals to igentlemen, we would suggest that it would only be fair for him to publish what his right name was in England, and what he was transported for."

Emigrants going to California are very abundant these days. Monday's Silver State informs us as follows:

Hon. William Woodburn's well the promised land." Neither would stip promised land." Neither would the promised land." Neither would the borison yesterday. It is well to look upon him. We are pleased to report him in robust health and excellent spirits.

We are incebted to the Gold Hill News of last evening for the following:

St. Petereburg, April 24.-The following to the text of the Cour's manifesto: "Our faithful and devoted subjects know the strong interest we have always felt in the oppressed Christian population of Turkey, and our desire to ameliorate their condition and assure them that their lot has been shared by the whole Russian nation, which shows itself ready to bear fresh merifices to alleviate the position of the Christions in Balkin Peninsula. blood and property of our faithful CORNER CARSON AND KING STS. ambjects have always been dear to us and our whole reign attests our constant solicitude which has never failed to actuate us.

The deplorable events which have occurred in Herzegovinia, Bosnia and Bulgaria are known. Our object, before all, was to effect some amelioration in the position of the Christians in the East by means of negotiations and in concert with the great European powers, our allies and friends. For two years we have made incessant efforts to induce the Porte to effect such reforms so would protect the Christians in Bosnia, Hersegovinia and Bulgaria from the arbitrary measures of the level authorities. The accomplishment of these reforms was absolutely stipulated by interior engagements contracted by the Porte toward the whole of Europe. These efforts were supported by diplomatic representations made in common with other governments, but have not, however, attained their object.

The Porte has remained unsbeken in its formal refusal of any effective guarantee for the security of its Christian subjects, and has rejected the conclusions at the Constantinople conference. Wishing to semy every possible means of conciliation in or-der to persuade the Porte, we proposed to other Cabinets to draw up a special protocol comprising the most pasential conditions of the Constantinople Confesence, and to invite the Turbish government to adhere to this international act, which states the extreme limits of our peaceful demands.

But our expectation was not fulfilled. The Porte did not defer to this unanimous wish of Christian Europe, and did not adhere to the conclusion of the protocol, flaving exhausted our pacific efforts, we are compelled by the haughty obstinacy of the Porte to more decisive acts, feeling that our equity and dignity enjoin it. By her refusal Turky places us under the necessity of having recourse to arms. Profoundly convinced of the justice of our cause, and committing ourselves to the grace of the Most High, we make known to our faithful subjects pronounced the words to which all Russia responded with complete unanmity, has now arrived. We expressed the intention to act independently when we deemed it necessary, and when Russia's honor should demand it. In now invoking the blessing of God upon our armies, we give them the order to cross the Turkish
